

CONSULTANCY SOLUTIONS

AC Training can offer a consultancy service to employers focusing on developing a coaching culture within their organization.

The service can be tailored to meet organizational needs and has a range of options for focused support and lasting change. It develops coaching as a standard practice across all levels of management to ensure dynamic leadership and performance.

“AC Training are supportive and extremely flexible and great to work with. I have no hesitation in recommending them.”

The options below can be standalone or as part of a structured programme to embed the concepts of a coaching culture across the whole organization.

Option 1 includes 1-1 Executive Coaching with senior leadership and organisational needs analysis.

This option includes the use of Psychometric and Development tools such as 360-degree assessment, Leadership Judgment, Personality Profiling, Emotional Intelligence Profiling, Career Aptitude and Conflict Resolution. They utilize the expertise provided by Myers Briggs, Hogrefe, PSI/Talogy.

Option 2 includes 1-1 or group coaching with aspiring and middle managers. The format and structure is agreed with the employer and tends to be for a specific timeframe, looking at the operational development of a coaching culture.

Option 3 includes workshops on coaching for managers to develop the skills to support employees and to develop the concept and value of a coaching culture.

Option 4 includes offering ILM coaching qualifications at Level 3 or 5 or the Coaching Professional apprenticeship. This allows for enhanced learning and the opportunity for recognition through the Association of Coaching.
